7. Important Notes

- The Consultancy Firm shall make reasonable commercial efforts to identify institution(s) offering admissions in the Client's designated program of study that do not require an application processing fee. However, the Client acknowledges and agrees that availability of application fee waivers is determined solely by host institutions, is not guaranteed, and does not constitute a contractual obligation of the Firm.
- Where a non-waived application fee is required by a university (typically ranging between RMB 400 and RMB 800 per university application), such fees are official third-party administrative charges set directly by the educational institutions. All application fees are the exclusive and non-refundable financial responsibility of the Client. Under no circumstances shall the Firm be liable, responsible, or obligated to advance, cover, reimburse, or absorb any university application fee on behalf of the Client.
- Submission of an application to any fee-requiring university is contingent upon the Client remitting the requisite fee in full prior to the institution's designated submission deadline. In the event the Client declines, fails, or delays to pay the applicable university fee:

  a. The Firm shall be held harmless and entirely relieved of any obligation to submit, process, or pursue the application for that specific university.

  b. The Client assumes all risk regarding missed deadlines, unsubmitted applications, or non-issuance of admission/scholarship offers resulting from non-payment.

  c. Such failure to pay shall not constitute a breach of agreement by the Firm nor entitle the Client to any refund of consultancy service fees previously paid.
- Provisional/conditional admission may be secured on the basis of transcripts and a provisional certificate for clients graduating before August 2027. The university reserves the right to request the official degree certificate before issuing the Final Admission Notice; it is the client's responsibility to fulfil this within the university's requested timeline.
- The stipend amount awarded depends on the client's interview performance and is determined solely by the university/scholarship committee.
- If the client fails to pay any amount within the specified timeframe, the Consultancy Firm is not responsible for any resulting loss.
- Clients who have already graduated without a final degree may secure conditional/provisional admission using a provisional certificate; the final degree must be submitted to the university whenever requested.
- A visa application requires the transcript and degree certificate of the client's most recent qualification.

- The Consultancy Firm's responsibility is limited to admission, scholarship, and visa guidance.
- Scholarship award decisions are made exclusively by the scholarship council/university and are outside the Consultancy Firm's control.

8. General Conditions

2) The consultancy fees outlined in Section 6 cover only educational advisory and consulting services. Additional expenses — including but not limited to document attestation, hotel bookings, air tickets, insurance, and visa fees — are not included and remain the client's responsibility.

3) Clients are responsible for additional expenses incurred during the application and admission process, including university application fees and any deposits required to accept a conditional/provisional offer.

4) Once the process has begun, if the client chooses to change their mind or discontinue at any stage, all outstanding package dues must be cleared in full. Failure to do so entitles the Company to pursue legal action for recovery of dues.

5) Any dispute, controversy, claim, or legal proceeding arising out of or in connection with this Agreement, including its interpretation, performance, breach, termination, or enforcement, shall be subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the competent courts at Lahore, Pakistan, if not specifically barred by the law. The parties hereby expressly agree that, for all purposes relating to this Agreement, the courts at Lahore shall have jurisdiction, and no party shall institute proceedings of any kind in any other court except where such jurisdiction is mandatorily prescribed by law.
